every 10,000 inhabitants. See [REDACTED] This number, when compared with the peacetime population of 134,000 (Tallinn-Homme) and with the officially announced 1946 population of 176,000, indicates that the Russian influx is still going on. The five Russian delegates (Molotov, Yefimova, Yefremov, Stalin, and Roslak) indicate a Russian population of approximately 50,000.
